

Building strength from within

4 July 2008

Piper Alderman continues to build its national presence with internal promotions announced at the start of the new financial year.

With 2 partners, 2 senior associates and 8 associates all newly promoted, it signifies a confidence within the firm that there is the breadth of expertise and knowledge to continue to improve and offer innovative legal services to all our clients.

Newly appointed partner Andrew Price was previously a consultant for Piper Alderman in the property practice in Sydney and before that was a senior partner at a major national law firm. Andrew brings a wealth of experience to the property practice both in Sydney and nationally and his promotion will continue to enhance the team's capabilities.

In addition promoted partner Tom Griffith works in the commercial litigation team in Sydney focusing on general commercial litigation with a property flavour, Tom will continue to help expand the firm's significant commercial litigation practice, which we expect to continue to grow in the current economic conditions.
